

The Future of Insurance in Greece

Poker or Chess?

www.thefutureofinsurance.gr

Now in its second year this event, organized once again by The Banker and FT Business, is viewed as a landmark for the industry, as a forum where senior Government officials, leading executives of insurance companies and recognized national and international experts share their views and insights on the options for reshaping the insurance sector and restoring confidence in it.

Thursday, 13 October 2011

8:30 to 18:30, Divani Caravel Hotel, Athens

Key topics to be raised:

- Assessing the Government's progress in implementing the necessary economic and structural reforms?
- Gaining the view from international institutions on the prospects of the Greek economy and the insurance sector.
- Evaluating the implementation process and costs of the Solvency II directive as well as its direct and indirect effects on business continuity.
- Analysing the need for tax incentives to encourage new business.
- Identifying the upcoming investment opportunities – how can insurance companies and Government work together to drive growth in key economic sectors such as occupational pension funds, healthcare and energy?
- Debating on the future of the agency system and distribution models.
